re-imagine Management Education

Vienna, 4th-6th of July 2017

A NEW MANAGEMENT EDUCATION THAT CARES

Imagine Education that serves what matters: achieving the highest quality of life on our precious planet. Education that provides the skills you need to become a conscious, open-minded, open-hearted human-being - and that lets you decide what this means. Education that learners love, citizens love, nature loves, employers love, that innovative business schools love. In short, management education that everyone loves!

The world needs leaders who can master the connections between the I, WE, and ALL of US spaces.
The I - How is this relevant to me? What are my own struggles with the topic? What is my emotional connection to it? Do I have personal experiences?
The WE - What are the main stakeholders related to the topic? What is their perspective? What do they know and how do they use their knowledge? Are there competing or collaborating views, or both? How do I work with them?
The US - What is the systemic use and impact of the topic? What scenarios does the topic create? How does it impact our world in all 4 dimensions - society, planet, economy and governance?

The 50+20 agenda established the need to chart an entirely new course for management education by proposing something revolutionary, daring and altogether different. During the educathon we will co-create a Responsible MBA (RMBA) program fit to suit learners, organisations, our diverse society and its surroundings. Along the way we further define WHAT, WHERE, WHEN and HOW to learn. Read more about it here.

This invitation is for current Students, Faculty, Academic Administrators, Employers, Entrepreneurs, NGO’s and world citizens: Join us in reimagining management education! You are invited to co-create this revolutionary new RMBA with us in Vienna on 4th - 6th July 2017. The collaboratory methodology will help us to tackle 3 main questions:

1. If you had the possibility to participate in this RMBA, how would you want your journey to look like and where would you want it to take you?
2. Which experiences and learnings do you consider valuable in order to enable your activities to positively affect your institution`s traces in the world?
3. What do you, being an active citizen of this planet and a member of a diverse society, would expect from a program like this?

The event is organized and facilitated mainly by students and it is funded on a “Give As You Feel” basis. Your support, whether you participate physically, remotely or in spirit is welcome. For those who want to support this initiative financially, please click here to donate!

We look forward to working with you!
